Copper Nickel is the national literary journal housed at the University of Colorado Denver. Published in March and September, it features poetry, fiction, essays, and work in translation by established and emerging writers. We welcome submissions from all writers. Submissions are assumed to be original and unpublished. For more information, please visit www.copper-nickel.org. Subscriptions are available—and at discounted rates for students—at www.regonline.com/coppernickelsubscriptions. Copper Nickel is distributed to subscribers and through Publishers Group West and Media Solutions. We are deeply grateful for the support of the Department of English and the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences at the University of Colorado Denver.
